GOP Looks Away in Dixie

Decision, soon to be announced, by Georgia Republicans to enter a candidate against the Democratic nominee in the Fifth Congressional District (which embraces Atlanta) in the November election does two things.

It focuses attention on what the Republican party has and has not done in the South since the Eisenhower victory.

And it marks the first real attempt, in the deep cotton South, to do something about all the many and hoary promises to create a two-party system. The border states have for some time had either Republican congressmen, or threats of them. But Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina and Louisiana, while they have had Dixiecrats in great, and largely hypocritical plenty, have witnessed no honest effort at putting together a genuine opposition party.

Georgia's Eisenhower Republicans, who were perhaps the most pure in heart of all those who did battle at the Chicago convention, have suffered mightily over their failure since the victory of their candidate. They felt that they, above all others, had a call to the arms.

Moral Issue

It was the fight over the Georgia delegation which, when the convention rose in its might and did the unheard-of deed of reversing its rules committee and taking away the delegates stolen for Bob Taft, really nominated Gen. Eisenhower.

In the hilarious hours after that nomination one Georgian greeted a member of the winning delegation, seated after such a long and acrimonious fight and said, "Who in the world would ever have thought to see a Republican convention turn on the Georgia delegation, and on a moral issue at that?"

At any rate, the winning Eisenhower Republicans came home seriously and sincerely determined to build an opposition party. Out of what I conceive to be an adequate knowledge of the political facts, I do not believe there were anywhere in the South more dedicated Republicans. They were genuinely idealistic.

They could have had Gov. Herman Talmadge's help in campaigning for a "Democrats-Fore-Eisenhower" ticket and might well have carried the state with such a device. They wanted to build their own party.

Almost immediately after the election the Eisenhower party in Georgia ran into a fight with the old-line Taft faction which had been unseated at Chicago by convention action. There were threats cut and damage done. But again the Eisenhower faction won, though at considerable cost. Now it comes up with the first genuine, all-wool-and-a-yard-wide Republican congressional candidate to be offered in the Deep South.

No Help

It remains to be seen what the national committee will do. The probability is it will do very little. No national GOP organization has ever really been willing to raise the money and provide the leadership necessary to build a Southern Republican party worthy of the name.

There are, astonishingly enough, nine states in which the Republicans have as yet failed to enter candidates in the House election battle. In Georgia they have one. This leaves 73 districts in which the Democrats as yet have no opposition, as follows:

	This Year	1952
Texas	17	21
Georgia	9	9
Alabama	7	6
North Carolina	7	2
Louisiana	6	4
South Carolina	6	2
Mississippi	6	4
Tennessee	5	6
Virginia	4	4
Kentucky	3	0
California	2	6
Totals	1	0

Totals 73 65
*Includes Democrats who won Republican nominations in the primary.
This doesn't look like any GOP effort to build a Southern party—and it isn't. But the Georgians—all on their own, are trying.

TO BE BUILT AT MARIETTA—Burbank, Calif., Aug. 23—The Air Force's first military transport designed expressly for turbo-prop power today successfully completed its initial flight. The test flight lasted 61 minutes, and take-off required one-third the distance called for by transports of comparable size.

First production models are due off assembly lines at Lockheed's Marietta, Ga. plant in 1955. The planes will be built only at Marietta. Designated the YC-130, the plane is powered by four Allison turbo-prop engines. Wing span is 132 feet. Landing gear permits operation from soft, improvised airstrips.

Rackets Bar To Industry, Hand Warns

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Plans for a second "Talkathon" and a warning of an "industrial boycott of Georgia" topped developments in the gubernatorial race Monday.

Candidates Fred Hand, Marvin Griffin and M. E. Thompson all issued victory claims in a day devoted almost entirely to television and radio shows instead of to stump speaking.

Other political stories on Pages 6 and 7.

Charlie Gowen announced a "Talkathon" for Thursday at Macon. He said he will use radio and television for 15 continuous hours, starting at 7 a. m. and ending at 10 p. m. He staged Georgia's first marathon talkfest from Atlanta last week, answering questions for 26 hours.

Gowen will speak twice Tuesday, at Newnan at 11 a. m. and in Cedartown at 5 p. m.

WON'T INVEST

Hand, who spoke at Greenville earlier, declared in a speech over WSB-TV Monday night that industry and investors wouldn't want to do business in Georgia if either Thompson or Griffin is elected. They would have no confidence in men with records of liquor and racketeering, Hand contended.

Griffin, in a television talk, promised to give veterans a preference in his administration. He hit at candidate Tom Linder, who had said Griffin, Hand and Thompson all "came from the same fox-hole."

Thompson urged a big turnout of voters and asked persons who can't be in their home precincts on election day to obtain absentee ballots. August 28 is the deadline for obtaining absentee ballots. While Thompson was in Savannah on television, Sen. Tom Hood of White County and East Point Mayor Al Roberts spoke for him over WSB-TV.

GILLIS FOR LINDER

State Highway Chairman Jim Gillis again declared he is backing Linder, after Griffin headquarters tried to pull some of his friends into the Griffin camp.

Mrs. Grace Thomas, speaking over a Valdosta radio, said the governor's office is such a big job that it needs a woman to straighten it out.

Georgia showed a slight decline in the number of citizens of voting age this year, as compared with 1950, according to the United States Census. There are 2,147,000.

Report Ex-Georgia Football Player Seeking Control Kites Ward's Stock

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—A high-stakes financial battle for control of the big Montgomery Ward & Co. mail order firm may be in the making, it was reported today.

Ward stock soared to a new high of 80 on the New York Stock Exchange on reports that Louis E. Wolfson, a multi-millionaire Florida financier and a former University of Georgia football player, has been buying up to 5,000 shares a day of the stock in the open market.

During the day the Ward stock slipped slightly from 80 and then went back up to 79 1/2.

The firm, suffering a decline in sales and profits, is under the iron-fisted control of Sewell Avery, 80-year-old chairman of the board.

Avery, who has voiced fears of a depression for a decade, has maneuvered Ward into a position of having some $300,000,000 in reserve against bad times.

Switchmen End Strike; Freight Service Starts

A labor dispute which halted freight service on three railroads for six days and disrupted passenger service over the weekend was settled here late Monday afternoon.

Freight operations at the Atlanta joint terminals were resumed at 11 p. m. Monday. S. R. Young, terminals board chairman, said schedules are expected to be back to normal Tuesday.

Young and union officials refused to reveal details of the agreement. Around-the-clock negotiations had been under way since Sunday, with the assistance of federal mediators. Railroads affected were the Georgia, L&N and Atlanta & West Point.

Twenty-three switching crews left their jobs last Tuesday in protest of the suspension of a crew that refused to pass pickets to deliver cars to the Atlanta Gas Light Co. plant where a strike is on. An estimated 1,000 railroad workers were involved, including firemen, engineers, switchmen and helpers.

Marshall L. Bowie, personnel director for terminals, estimated that about 200 rail employees actually were on strike and the others in the walkout were observing picket lines.

Bowie said a planned $1,050,000 damage suit against the unions by a group of railroad officials will not be pursued. The petition was filed last week in Fulton Superior Court.

Although Young said several days ago that a great deal was at issue besides refusal of switchmen to cross picket lines at the gas company, Bowie said Monday the settlement did not involve wage or working condition changes. The strike forced cancellation of four New York-New Orleans passenger train runs through Atlanta Monday.

Churchill, Mendes Agree West Must Bulwark Unity in Europe

By WILBUR G. LANDREY

WESTERHAM, England, Aug. 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Premier Pierre Mendes-France agreed today on the urgent need for shoring up Western unity against the threat of a European Defense Community collapse.

They were silent after a four and a half hour emergency conference on what they thought should be done about this gravest crisis of the anti-Communist defense setup.

Informed sources said Mendes-France, convinced that EDC is dead, would put the EDC pact to a vote in Parliament, scheduled for next week. If and when it fails, they added, France will agree to West German sovereignty and push the search for a new way to add West Germany's armed might to the Western line-up.

Churchill and Mendes-France turned near the end of their talk to possible alternative alliances to rearm-Germany and yet maintain some safeguards, informants said.

The bustling young French Premier flew here from the future Brussels conference on the EDC to seek the counsel and support of the old warrior who first voiced the concept of European unity after the Second World War.

Truce Pact Returning Pilots to Air

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—American Airlines and the striking Air Line Pilots Assn., Inc. agreed tonight to a temporary settlement of their dispute and to resume operations at 12:01 a. m. Wednesday.

Both sides yesterday had accepted a proposal by the National Mediation Board that the three-week-old strike be halted while a "neutral" person studies the dispute and submits recommendations that would not be binding.

Today they resolved remaining questions in the so-called "truce" agreement and chose as the referee David L. Cole of Paterson, N.J., a labor relations expert.

NOT FINAL

Today's agreement is by no means a "final" settlement. The pilots have merely agreed to go back to work while Cole holds hearings and submits his recommendations.

Still to be resolved, for example, is the question of west-bound nonstop, transcontinental flights. Initiation of these flights touched off the dispute. The pilots protested that continuous flights of more than eight hours are unsafe.

The company has denied the flights are safety hazards, noting that the Civil Aeronautics Board recently authorized non-stop flights of up to 10 hours.

AWAIT AGREEMENT

The pilots agreed to continue the disputed flights pending a final agreement.

American agreed to call off for at least 60 days all action on its $1,250,000 damage suit against the union.

Moreover, the "truce" calls for the return of all 1,200 American pilots and co-pilots without discrimination or reprisal and without loss of seniority.

Once-Mighty Mo Takes Last Trip Before Mothballs

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 23 (AP)—The battleship Missouri cruised southward in the Atlantic tonight on a voyage billed as her last.

The Mighty Mo, in line with the shift in emphasis from battleships to aircraft carriers, is to be decommissioned.

After her transit of the Panama Canal, the Missouri will make brief stops at two California ports—Long Beach and San Francisco—before she joins the mothball fleet at Bremerton, Wash. She is due in Bremerton Sept. 15.

Shortly before the 45,000-ton warship sailed today, Norfolk's Vice Mayor George Abbott told her of love and men the city is proud to have been her home port and is sorry to see her "leave Norfolk for the last time."

Pinay Asks EDC Trial for France

PARIS, Aug. 23 (AP)—Former Premier Antoine Pinay launched an 11th-hour attempt tonight to save the European Defense Community treaty by proposing that France agree to join in the pact on an 18-month trial basis.

Pinay is rated as the most likely candidate to succeed Premier Mendes-France if the present government falls on a vote of confidence over EDC.

Ike Calls for Congress That'll Complete Job; Vetoes Wage Increase

Admits Need But Brands Bill Unwise

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

DENVER, Aug. 23—A bill raising the pay of government workers 5 per cent ran into a veto today.

President Eisenhower said he would not let it become law because:

1. It disregarded principles of sound personnel management.

2. It ignored the necessity of revenue to pay for salary increases.

He assured the 1,750,000 federal and District of Columbia government workers affected that in January he would again ask Congress for a pay bill that will grant general pay increases based upon the purposes of correcting inequities, promoting efficiency, and rewarding merit and experience.

OBVIOUS DISTORTIONS

He said there was a need to correct obvious distortions in pay scales, to establish more equitable relationships between grades and steps within those grades, and to provide for a proper and effective relationship between pay and work performed.

The last general pay increases for federal employees was granted more than three years ago. Since that time the government's "market basket" of consumer prices has gone up about 4 per cent.

The bill the President disapproved would have given 5 per cent pay increase to 1,100,000 classified Civil Service employees, about 150,000 other "white collar" workers in the federal service, and to about 500,000 postal workers.

The maximum allowable raise would have been $440 a year.

EXPANDS ON OBJECTIONS

The President's decision is a "pocket veto"—the only kind of veto available after Congress adjourns and has no opportunity to override it.

All a President need do to kill a bill after adjournment is to put it in his pocket for 10 days. No message is necessary, but the President issued what he called a "memorandum of disapproval," so that federal workers "may not have to undergo a period of uncertainty as to my action."

CAPTURED

Nick George Montos

FBI Nabs Nick Montos; Wanted in Alma Theft

Slippery Nick George Montos, 38, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men, who is charged in the brutal beating and robbery of an elderly Alma man and his sister three years ago, was arrested Monday in a suburb of Chicago.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said two special agents of the FBI recognized Montos sitting in an automobile waiting for a freight train to pass and made the arrest.

A .38-caliber automatic, fully loaded, was found in a cigar box in the automobile, the FBI said. The three-year search for Montos had centered in Georgia, Alabama and Florida. He slipped through the fingers of the law two months ago in a small Alabama town after being arrested on a traffic charge. And a month ago he approached a truck driver who was sleeping in the cab of his vehicle parked on the roadside near Montgomery, Ala., and offered the truck driver $500 to deliver an automobile to Spar-

Raps Gloom Prophets in Hailing 83rd

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

DENVER, Aug. 23—President Eisenhower told the nation tonight it can be proud of the 83rd Congress.

He said emphatically, however, the job he wanted is not all done—only a very good start has been made.

On those premises he made a frank appeal to the voters to elect an 84th Congress that would get on with the rest of his program.

He scoffed at opponents who, he said, predicted last January that by this time the country would be in the grip of a third World War, a devastating depression, and that the Republican Party would be in chaos.

DIVES INTO CAMPAIGN

Thus did the President push on with the 1954 political campaign, a campaign he has been gradually immersing himself in as he gingerly abandoned, weeks ago, a practice of mentioning no individuals by name.

Lately the President has spoken out for individuals by name and has posed for photographs with 125 or more individual candidates for legislative jobs—all in the name of advancing his program.

He spoke by television and radio from Denver. He moved his base of operations here Saturday.

The President's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, was asked whether this was a non-political speech.

"You judge," he snapped. Then he added, "This is a speech by the President of the United States. I'm not going to interpret it one way or another."

SPEAKS FROM NOTES

Speaking from notes, the President ran down the list of major laws enacted by Congress since he took office 19 months ago, and told about the teamwork with the executive that did it. In this context, he credited the Democrats only with consultation on some international matters.

Using baseball language, he said the 83rd Congress had a batting average of .830 on his proposals—a good batting average in anyone's league, he added. Indeed, it is almost twice as good as the best ever achieved in baseball.

Then he listed what remained to be done. It all added up, in brief, to a happier, more prosperous, more secure America and a better relationship with the external world.

Crediting the Congress with courage, vision, patience and patriotism, the President said that the Council of Churches Leaders Strive For Unity as Anglican Rite Is Picketed

By RUSSELL LANE
EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 23 (AP)—Leaders of 163 Christian denominations worked to create a platform of unity today at the World Council of Churches Assembly despite picketing of a solemn rite of spiritual brotherhood.

An unusual open communion service of the Anglican Church was picketed by three persons who passed out leaflets deploring what they termed a "violation" of the Episcopal Church sacrament.

The demonstration was given little apparent heed by persons attending the service, but some Council leaders commented later that it illustrated the difficulty of the Assembly's undertaking.

The Assembly met in a night plenary session to receive reports of studies by a commission on activities of women in the church, and its departments on youth and ecumenical study.

Dr. Mils Ehrenstrom of Sweden, director of the Council's Study Department, suggested creation of a permanent ecumenical center for study and research. He urged that individual churches provide themselves with more adequate facilities for interchange of information and ideas on unity.

Mlle. Madeline Barot of France, secretary of the Assembly's Commission on the Life and Work of Women in the Church, told the delegates, "For some reason women seem to have an even more intense desire for unity, world Christian fellowship and mutual help than do men."

She suggested that churches accept the cooperation of women to a fuller extent and in more varied ways. She also proposed that the Council "foster an ecumenical outlook in women's organizations of the various churches and countries."

"World fellowship of young Christians within the ecumenical movement" was advocated by the Rev. Philip Potter of Cape Haitien, Haiti.

Perhaps the most significant move was launching by the Assembly's six divisions on policy of their meetings to formulate statements of church Council principles in their separate fields. These are faith and order, evangelism, social questions, international affairs, intergroup relations and the laity.

There also was a panel discussion at which accredited visitors discussed publicly the tensions of international politics as they applied to Christian aims.

There, Francis B. Sayre, one-time U.S. High Commissioner in the Philippines and former U.N. delegate, said "We can never beat communism through military force, but there can be no conciliation between communism and Christian ideology."

But a church leader from the Communist world, Bishop John Peter of Hungary, answered "yes" to the written question submitted to him by newsmen: "Can Christianity co-exist successfully with communism?"

The bishop, who had been accused of being a Soviet agent and an informer against fellow clergymen in Hungary, declared that "in no sense of the word" could he be called a Communist.

Sayre said "the belief that we can get along without God is so destructive that Christian communities have to defend themselves against communism for the preservation of Christianity."

Dr. Jean L. C. Westphal of France and Prof. Surjit Singh of India told the panel audience that Christians must oppose use of the hydrogen and atom bombs.

TELLS OF RED RULE—NEW YORK, Aug. 23—Ilona Massey, Hungarian actress, tells of her experiences with Communist rule as she testifies before the House committee on Communist aggression here today. She told of a "hungry, shabby and dirty" post-World War I childhood when the Reds came into power in Hungary and later mentioned that her mother was permitted to leave Hungary, once again under Red rule, in 1947 after Miss Massey bribed Hungarian police for a passport to the U.S.

AF Acts To Weed Out Terror Gang Members

CHANUTE AIR FORCE BASE, Ill., Aug. 23 (AP)—The commandant of Chanute Air Force Base Monday pledged "positive proceedings" against young airmen banded together in a secret terrorist society.

The group, indulging in rites including blood pledges of obedience and secrecy, is known as "Pachuco." Its operations resembled hoodlumism carried on by bands of young toughs in New York, Los Angeles and other large cities.

Maj. Gen. B. E. Gates, commandant of the base, promised "positive proceedings" and "continuous action" as his assurance that the Air Force will not tolerate "a few bad apples" contaminating a fine group of American young men.

"We didn't breed these hoodlums," Gen. Gates declared in a statement. "The Air Force inherited them when it took a cross section of the American people."

"We are doing something to weed them out." The crackdown came suddenly Sunday when the Air Force announced 30 young airmen had been seized as suspected members of the society.

They were questioned about "acts of violence and lawlessness ranging from AWOL offenses and marijuana addiction to knife assaults," Gen. Gates said.

Interrogation of these 30 was conducted over the weekend. In addition, 70 other airmen temporarily released were called back for further questioning Monday.

Saturday morning part of the base's 15,000 airmen were called out and ordered to strip to the waist. Some 175 members had "unexplained marks or tattoos." Many carried switch blade knives. Juvenile officers in Los Angeles believe the term Pachuco originated in Pachuca, Mexico, and first was used in the United States in El Paso, Tex. It seldom is used anymore in Los Angeles but refers to young punks of Mexican extraction who distinguish themselves by wearing ducktail haircuts, zoot suits and carry knives.

GOP Jurors Jab Army, McCarthy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—Four Republican senators today filed a majority report said to be mildly critical of both sides in the Army-McCarthy controversy.

The Republican accord came as something of a surprise, and obviously reflected the success of appeals for party unity in the face of a tough congressional election campaign.

The decision will not be made public until after 5 p.m. Monday—the deadline fixed for filing of separate opinions by the four Republicans and three Democrats who conducted the 36-day hearings that ended June 17.

Biggest surprise was that the Republicans had been able to find a middle ground satisfactory both to Sen. Potter (Mich.) and Sen. Dirksen (Ill.).

While Dirksen had agreed for the "acquittal" of Sen. McCarthy, Potter had said publicly that each side had proved its principal allegations against the other. Well-informed sources said the successful maneuver to force Roy Cohn's resignation after the hearings played a part in bringing the Republicans together on their final decision.

Until today, Democratic subcommittee members had entertained at least a hope that Potter would side with them in a majority report severely critical of both sides in the controversy.

In addition to signing the majority report, Potter also left be-

4 Are Jailed In $2,143 Safe Theft

An Atlantan recently crippled by a dynamite blast and three other persons were lodged in city jail on burglary charges in connection with a $2,143 drug store safe robbery last December, police said.

Dets. S. E. Smith and J. O. Smith identified the four, all with police records, as E. C. "Fat" Livingston, 35, of 670 Gary St., NW, who lost an arm and an eye in a dynamite blast; Ralph C. Staffin, 27, of a Commercial street, NW, address; Staffin's brother, Lawrence C. Staffin, 34, of Cedar Ave., NW, and James Hefner.

The four are scheduled for preliminary hearing at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in Municipal Court in connection with a safe robbery Dec. 14, 1953, at West Fulton Pharmacy, 1944 Bankhead Ave., NW, detectives said. Police said Hefner, Franklin Robinson, Clarence Ward and Jimmy Wooten are held in another series of 83 safe robberies that blanketed Fulton County and other parts of Georgia.

Livingston, who was placed on five years' probation in federal court recently on charges of auto larceny, lost his left arm and right eye in a dynamite blast six months ago. Detectives quoted him as saying the injury resulted while he was blasting for fish on the Flint River.

Injunction Halting Pickets Asked by Building Firm Here

One of the Atlanta construction firms whose building projects were halted here July 1 by a wage dispute between contractors and building unions is seeking a court injunction to halt picketing of its projects.

The injunction is sought by Mion Construction Co., which holds contracts for construction of a professional building at Georgia Baptist Hospital and a classroom-administration building at the Atlanta Division, University of Georgia, both tied up by the strike.

The petition, which names as defendants officials of Local No. 438 of the Construction and General Laborers' Union, claims work was stopped on Mion jobs although the company has "no dispute" with the unions.

It claims work was halted on the jobs—which were being constructed under "open shop" rules—when a Local No. 438 picket picketed the projects. The petition claims that in addition to attempting to compel all union members to strike, the purpose of the picketing is to compel the firm to hire only union members.

Marijuana Transport Link Is Suspected

Discovery of marijuana cigarettes over the weekend that were the "freshest" seen in Atlanta recently led Fulton Criminal Sol. John I. Kelley Monday to believe marijuana is being transported into Atlanta from some nearby point.

Kelley's investigators, Charlie Little and George Carter, found the cigarettes Saturday in the possession of James Adriene, 40-year-old Negro, who operates a cafe at 194 Jackson St., NE, where he was arrested. He later posted $3,000 bond.

Take home your Spitz Jr. today from Davison's Book Shop, Street Floor, or Toyland, Third Floor.

The face was familiar

Late last Wednesday afternoon when the heavens opened and turned Peachtree into a little Chattahoochee, a beautiful brunette started out our door. She was bare-headed, umbrella-less and up to her eyebrows in Davison bundles. She hesitated a split second, then quickly stripped off stockings and shoes and waded into the torrent. Most folks were too covered up under umbrellas or raincoats to notice her, but two guys (naturally) did. They recognized instantly the face that has launched a thousand pictures in slick magazines and newspapers across the nation... Miss Neva Jane Langley! "Brother, is she a queen—even barefooted and soaking wet!" remarked one of the moon-struck guys.

The Little Guy at our Sporting Goods counter seemed all eyes—enormous blue eyes shining like headlights in a wan, thin face. He picked up a baseball bat and swatted an imaginary ball as it sailed straight over an imaginary home plate. Only his left arm couldn't get a good firm grip. Maybe because it was caged in a steel brace from wrist to elbow. "Break your arm, son?" inquired our girl. "Nope—Polio," said the Little Guy proudly, "but it don't hurt my batting none—I hit nine homers this Spring!" Our girl replied that was just wonderful and would he have to wear the brace long? "Well, I sure hope so," he replied, "maybe I won't hit so good if the Doc takes it off—guess this old brace is my good luck." It's this buoyant spirit in polio victims everywhere that makes citizens dig gladly in their jeans whenever there's an SOS from the March of Dimes. There's one right now! Won't you give today to the Emergency Polio Drive and keep the hatting average of courage high—for the Little Guy and all the others?

EDC Is Tottering; Russia Is Gleeful

French Premier Mendes-France met yesterday with Sir Winston Churchill in an effort to salvage something of the European Defense Community that would incorporate West Germany's potential in Western defenses. He went back to France without securing British agreement to join the plan but with assurances from Churchill that "I will do all I can to help."

The French premier is now staking his meteoric career on the issue. His compromise proposals, incorporating what he believes the French nation will accept, have been turned down flatly by all the powers involved, including West Germany. That leaves the situation about as it was when the French themselves first proposed the plan.

The impasse is not of Mendes-France's choosing. He inherited the problem. EDC is opposed by the extreme right and the extreme left and French nationalists are opposed to any surrender of national sovereignty. It is generally conceded that no French government could secure approval of the EDC treaty in its present form.

The courageous French premier, who gave such promise of bringing new stability to the French government, has scheduled the first French Assembly debate on EDC on Aug. 28. If he insists on a vote on EDC in its present form, his government is likely to fall. At the same time, his watered-down plan will not be accepted by France's allies.

Whatever happens, the West cannot delay any longer a definite settlement with Germany. The French have the choice of permitting West Germany to rearm and to regain her national sovereignty within the framework of EDC or of letting Germany rebuild without the EDC safeguards. A West Germany on its own and determined to reunite its divided country presents a greater danger.

Washington is gambling everything on EDC and to date has shown no inclination to compromise with the French. The situation is headed for a climax. In event of final French rejection of the plan, Mr. Dulles must come up with some "alternatives" if the Western alliance is not to fall apart.

The Russians are gleeful over the prospect and are setting the stage to pick up the pieces. Their first project is a reunited Germany—but a Communist Germany.

Let Congress Get Blame For Wage Bill Veto

President Eisenhower has vetoed the federal pay raise bill although "needed and proper," but as "unwise" because it would add $112,000,000 to post office operation costs without providing any revenue.

The bill is not, he said, a part of a "progressive and efficient program."

But, it also is not a progressive position for the President to take unless at the same time he puts the blame where it belongs—on the Republican Congress. The reason there isn't any increased revenue to pay the employees the raise the President says is needed, is because the GOP-controlled Congress refused to vote it.

The President should have said so. His party has control. His party put the issue up to him in a most hypocritical manner. They knew he would veto it. But they will say to the employees, whose votes they seek, they voted for the raise. Here was a time when the President should have told the public just what a dishonest job the GOP Congress did. Failure to do so makes his veto vulnerable. The employees thus deprived of a raise the President says they should have will not be happy about it. And they might not vote Republican in November.

Teen-Age Hoodlumism Grows More Shocking

Revelations about teen-age hoodlumism in New York City are shocking in the extreme. What makes it all the more revolting is the knowledge that these youngsters are not indulging in ordinary petty crime. They are past the stage of vandalism and are committing violent acts, including murder.

Some of the youngsters involved are not products of the tenements, as we are wont to believe. They come from good, average families—some of them in the upper income brackets.

The New York crackdown has gotten the headlines, but the problem is by no means confined to that city. A story from Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois yesterday revealed that 30 young airmen had been seized as suspected members of a secret youth terrorist society called "Pacheco."

Members of the society, the story says, distinguished themselves by acts of violence. The more terrible the violence, the greater the distinction.

Juvenile delinquency is the nation's worst social problem. It is also becoming the country's worst crime problem. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has warned time and time again that juvenile crime is on the increase and that it accounts for a large percentage of major offenses in the country.

Many studies have been made as to the causes. They admittedly are many. Breakdown of parental authority and the general insecurity of today's world are two major causes. But whatever they are, communities, cities, states—the whole nation—must undertake to find the solution. We are giving up too many of our young people at too great economic losses to accept it as anything but the major problem that it is.

Oswatimie Makes Fluoridation History

Oswatimie, Kans., in the news a hundred years ago for the night rides of the abolitionist John Brown, has made history again. Last week Oswatimie became the 1,000th community in the nation to fluoridate its water supply.

When it did, Dr. Leslie M. Fitzgerald, president of the American Dental Association, was on hand to declare fluoridation for preventing dental decay "one of the great public health measures of our time."

The national dental association chief said that of all the irresponsible charges leveled against fluoridation, not a single one has withstood the test of scientific investigation.

Dr. Fitzgerald finds ready agreement in the medical profession. Dr. T. E. Cato, Miami health commissioner, for example, says, "In my opinion, fluoridation of our city water supply was the biggest step forward in the promotion of dental health that the Health Department and community have ever taken."

In Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Philadelphia and San Francisco, the health commissioners, each one an M. D., express the Miami doctor's firm belief in fluoridation.

This is the program from which some 18 million Americans are now receiving benefit. In addition, 3 1/2 million live in areas served by water supplies which by nature contain fluorides in the desirable amounts.

This is the program of which The New York Times says, "We hope New York will not have to wait much longer."

Like New York City, Atlanta lags in adopting this measure for reducing dental decay. Like the Times, The Atlanta Constitution must say, "How much longer, Atlanta, must we wait?"

The U.S. Constitution Is a Sturdy Document

The Constitution of the United States has been amended only 22 times in its 165-year history, but Congress keeps right on trying. A total of 152 amendments were offered during the 83rd Congress that just adjourned, only six of which ever reached the floors of the House and Senate.

Of the six to reach the floor for consideration, two were rejected outright by the Senate—one to restrict membership of the Supreme Court and the Bricker Amendment to curb the 165-year-old powers of the President.

The difficulty in getting an amendment to the Constitution is a tribute to its original authors. They did not overlook many things necessary for men to live in freedom. It has served the country as well as any document in human history. In fact, it is perhaps the greatest political pronouncement of all time.

Of the many amendments proposed during our history, 22 have been accepted by the country and five have been rejected.

If the thousands of amendments that have been proposed had been accepted, the Constitution would be an unwieldy, unworkable document that would make government impossible. We only have to look at some state constitutions to realize that.

Yes, the Constitution is a pretty good document. The less it's tampered with the better. The founding fathers did a good job and efforts to improve upon it are difficult indeed.

For those of us who have overestimated our importance in the universe, Harvard astronomer Harlow Shapley has a bit of deflating information. There are, says Dr. Shapley, probably 100,000,000 other planets in the universe suitable for high forms of life, and life on some of them may surpass our own.

Such knowledge of other planets is reassuring—just in case we should blow this one up.

Attlee and Mendes-France Endanger Safety Of Their Own People and All Free Nations'

Savannah—There is an inelegant but apt saying: To wit, "Politics makes for strange bed fellows."

Recent events suggest that Clement Attlee and Mendes-France are typical examples. Both have chosen to consort with the Reds.

Each in his own way has deliberately endangered his own people and all free nations.

One fails to discover any high or patriotic motive which might justify their courses of action.

These facts present a gloomy picture. If there is a silver lining, it may be seen in the historical fact that neither Englishmen nor Frenchmen have been content to sit on their hands while brave men were fighting to safeguard their freedom.

Residential Sections Have Parking Woes

Atlanta—The traffic situation is rather a problem in some of the residential sections as well as the downtown district, especially if there happen to be some manufacturing plants in the vicinity.

Practically all the employees drive their cars to work, with no place to park except the residential streets, causing the people who live along those streets to have to find a parking place elsewhere.

Every business place employing a number of people should be forced to furnish a parking lot for their employees instead of using both sides of the adjoining streets, so that others driving on those streets can scarcely pass each other without accidents.

Spending of Taxes Is Public's Business

Voters Must Qualify Under Georgia Law

Bethlehem—Now the Negroes have brought another suit against officials, this time to try to stay on the voter's registration lists after having been disqualified.

If I understand the situation, these Negroes failed to pass a test showing their ability to read a portion of and interpret a part of the U.S. Constitution.

I am under the impression also that this test is required of all citizens who vote, and is a law of Georgia.

I know that at the time this law was passed, I re-registered and was handed a portion of the U.S. Constitution to read and interpret, which I did do with no thought other than obeying a law which our Legislature had passed.

GOP Congress Now Places Its 2-Year Record on Line

WASHINGTON—What did the American voter get on election day, 1952, when he sent his congressman and senators to Washington? Will he ask for more of the same next November? President Eisenhower recommended an overhaul of the tax laws, and Congress complied on most points. Taxation of dividend income was reduced and a scheduled tax cut for corporations was postponed one year.

The new tax law also increases allowable deductions for medical expenses, permits deduction of some child-care costs, eases the tax load on retirement income, and authorizes faster depreciation write-offs. Administration forces defeated efforts to increase personal exemptions.

Scheduled reduction of some excise taxes was postponed, but others were cut back by almost $1 billion.

Battling the bipartisan farm bloc, the President won a trial for flexible price supports for five basic commodities, ending a series of "temporary" extensions of rigid supports. And Congress okayed reduction of dairy supports.

Congress extended Social Security coverage, increased benefits, raised the taxable earnings base from $3,600 to $4,200, and allowed pensioners to earn more income without forfeiting retirement benefits. Another welfare measure extended unemployment compensation coverage. Democrats tried, but failed to increase jobless pay benefits through federal action.

While granting most of the President's requests for encouraging construction and repair of housing, Congress approved little of his public-housing program. Nearly $2 billion was authorized for highway aid. And U.S. participation in construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway, proposed by every President since Wilson, finally pulled through.

In a 1953 battle over resources, Congress granted to coastal states title to submerged lands ("tidelands") and natural resources within their historic boundaries. Federal control of submerged lands and resources seaward of the "tidelands" was confirmed.

Also stymied was the President's proposed revision of the Taft-Hartley labor law, along with his plan to encourage expansion of private, voluntary health insurance through establishment of a federal fund to underwrite exceptional risks. Several other health bills went through, including expansion of grants for hospital construction and vocational rehabilitation.

Congress approved several anti-subversive measures, including one to force some witnesses to testify despite the Fifth Amendment. A wiretap bill failed of final passage. Most sweeping of the anti-Red bills was one designed to outlaw the Communist Party, passed after the Administration toned it down by eliminating criminal penalties against rank-and-file members.

The President delayed recommendations for a long-range education program, preferring to wait for results of state and national conferences. A school-construction aid bill was stymied, although aid was continued for areas burdened by influxes of federal workers and their children.

Early in its life, the 83rd Congress acted to end several war and post-war economic controls. Efforts were made to decentralize the federal government and to reduce its participation in commercial enterprises.

Congressmen shied away from raising their own salaries.

Blessings Are Brief Yet Are Meaningful

Some time ago I wrote about the importance of teaching small children to appreciate that behind their meals were the hands of a multitude of farmers, manufacturers and marketers and behind all of them the benevolent providence of God. I listed nine little prayers suitable for use before meals and invited readers to send me the prayers they use at their tables. Well, the response has been very generous and I'm still getting letters on the subject.

Many of the table blessings are brief and yet contain within a few words an abundant meaning. One, for instance, reads: "For all Thy mercy, for Thy bounty, for what we are about to receive, O Lord, we give Thee thanks, Amen." In this sentence is an acknowledgment of the goodness and providence of God and man's proper attitude of gratitude.

Several letters contain this breakfast grace: "Father, we thank Thee for the night ... And for the blessed morning light ... For health and food and loving care ... For all that makes the world so fair ... Help us to do the things we should ... To be to others kind and good ... In all we do and all we say ... Be more like Thee every day."

A letter from Decatur quotes this grace which, the writer says, emphasizes in the child's mind three distinct attitudes that are desirable: "Bless, O Lord, our bodies to Thy service ... And this food to our bodies ... Make us ever mindful of the needs of others, Amen."

This one has an especial appeal to me: "Lord Jesus, be our Holy Guest ... Our morning joy, our evening rest ... And with Thy daily bread impart ... Thy loving peace to every heart, Amen."

Let me add to these a sentiment, ascribed by my correspondent to the great preacher of an earlier day, Theodore Parker: "Gratitude is a nice touch of beauty added last of all to the countenance, giving a classic beauty, an angelic loveliness, to the character."

A very wonderful prayer, written long ago by Robert Louis Stevenson, is a favorite of mine. It ought to be memorized by everyone, for at the most unexpected times the thought of it will bring celestial beauty to life: "We thank Thee for this place in which we dwell; for the peace accorded us this day; for the hope with which we expect the morrow; for the work, the food, and the bright skies that make our lives delightful. Give us courage and gaiety and the quiet mind, Amen."

Stevenson wrote those lines when he had fled to the South Seas for respite from great physical pain. Yet his faith was such that though the body was withering away, within his soul was courage, gaiety and a quiet peacefulness.

Vote on Outlaw Bill Has Ironic Twist

WASHINGTON—It is an ironic twist that in the closing hours of the Congress and on the eve of the midterm elections we find the Republican Senators voting overwhelmingly against the Democratic Senators voting overwhelmingly for making membership in the Communist party a punishable crime.

Does this mean that the Republican Party has suddenly acquired a "soft" attitude toward dealing with subversion? The objective answer is "no."

Does this mean that the Democratic Party has suddenly acquired a "tougher" attitude than anybody toward dealing with subversion? The objective answer is "no."

Whatever may happen to this measure in conference or at the hands of the President when he determines whether to sign or veto it, there is no explaining this vote in the Senate—and in the House—except in partisan political terms.

Partisan politics does explain it. Democratic politics in the substantial part dominated the 37-to-1 Democratic vote in the Senate and the 131-to-1 vote in the House to make Communist Party or front membership a felony.

Leading Republican spokesmen, including Attorney General Herbert Brownell, have been responsible for the charge that a Democratic President knowingly appointed "a Communist spy" to a high government position and have been spreading the accusation that 20 years of Democratic rule have been marked by "20 years of treason."

There is no doubt that these tactics have annoyed, angered, embittered and politically damaged many Democratic leaders. They certainly did not want to face the coming elections without some shelter from this kind of accusatory barrage. They saw their opportunity when a moderate anti-Communist bill came to the floor of the Senate last week. Liberal Democratic Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota was ready with a surprise amendment which would automatically make known members felons. It was quickly passed.

Under administration initiative the House removed the Humphrey amendment. Now the Senate has put it back with the Democrats supporting it almost unanimously and the Republicans voting 38 to 3 against it.

This means that, whatever the final outcome, the Democrats can go into the fall campaign with plausible—but no more than plausible—argument that they have taken the toughest, roughest, hardest, you-can't-ever-call-me-a-pro-Commie position of anybody—and the Republicans voted against us!

When Congress breathlessly passes a measure of such moment in the hectic pre-adjournment hours, without hearings on the disputed provision, without substantial debate, and with elections beckoning luridly ahead, it is time for calmer people to stop, look and question.

Diverse Influences Stamp 83rd Session

WASHINGTON—Any analysis of the Republican 83rd Congress must take account of two influences in the Republican Party, often in conflict, which combined to elect Gen. Eisenhower and put the Republican Party in power. Both influences made their imprint on the record of Congress, and, in fact, on the administration. Congress and administration must be considered together.

One of the influences is the moderately progressive wing of the party, with its invitation to a continuation of New Deal-Fair Deal social welfare advances, a mong other benevolent objectives. As a campaigner in 1953, Gen. Eisenhower kept that face of the Republican Janus forward with his constantly reiterated pledge to "preserve the social gains."

The other influence in the party, active first in the Eisenhower nomination, is that of powerful business and financial interests that are cold and sure in their political calculations. In the war hero they saw not only the one public figure whom the Republicans might be able to elect, but a figure behind whose glowing image, if elected, they might operate effectively to get what they wanted. His lack of practical political experience lent itself to their purposes. To further them, they were able to get heavy representation in the administration close to the ear of the President.

As for the first influence, we see it reflected in expansion of the New Deal social security program, for example. For that President Eisenhower is due great credit as he brought into line members of his party who had successfully blocked such expansion when sought repeatedly by former President Truman.

As for the second influence, business and finance, their successes

Even TVA, hitherto considered almost untouchable, was hit in a maneuver in which President Eisenhower participated personally with his great prestige.

It is a mixed story and you will hear much of all sides of it in the next few weeks before the November elections.

U.S. Opens Indochina Fact Drive

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The U. S. Information Agency is launching an offensive in the battle for the minds and sympathies of the people of Indochina.

The program is based on two central points — blunt assertion that the U.S. supports the Indochinese peoples' struggle for full independence and unity and systematic exposure of the realities of life "behind the Iron Curtain."

The program is based on two meet a stepped-up Chinese Communist "cultural" drive in southeast Asia and particularly in Viet Nam. In Viet Nam the struggle between communism and the free world has a time limitation — two years, at the end of which the Vietnamese are to hold elections in the north and south and in effect choose on which side of the Iron Curtain they want to live.

If the election were held now the Communists would probably win, experts believe. The United States must, furthermore, speak to the people of Indochina across the cultural gulf separating Americans and Europeans from the Orient.

In the past, it is believed, U.S. efforts to influence the Vietnamese have been strained by the necessity of avoiding friction with French authorities. In the future U.S. officials will, to an increasing extent, work directly with the Vietnamese, not only in issuing information but in economic and military affairs.

De Gasperi Buried in Simple Services

ROME, Aug. 23 (AP)—Italy today buried Alcide De Gasperi, her leading postwar statesman and first Premier of the Italian Republic, in a simple service without flowers or oratory.

The funeral was held in Rome's Chiesa Del Gesù (Church of Jesus) where he had often stopped to pray while on his way to Parliament or his office. Members of Parliament, the government, diplomatic corps, and officials of De Gasperi's Christian Democrat party attended. U.S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce, who flew here from a vacation in the United States, represented President Eisenhower.

Lowndes Farm Mart Under Fire

A Lowndes County Grand Jury committee has requested the State Department of Agriculture to operate the Valdosta Farmers' Market for the benefit of the farmers or to close it.

The group, appointed to investigate conditions at the market, indicated that, because of the present policy of renting space at the market, lack of price information for farmers and the failure to provide grading and packing facilities, the local market is operated for the benefit of speculators who act as buyers here.

The committee placed special emphasis on the increase in the produce price from the farmers' market to retail sales.

The report stated, "We have found that the same produce sold in retail stores brings as much as 10 times more than the farmers got for it when sold on the same day at the Farmers' Market."

Savannah Area Victory Is Claimed by Thompson

SAVANNAH, Aug. 23—M. E. Thompson claimed winning support in Chatham County and the entire Savannah area Monday night as he brought his gubernatorial campaign here with renewed predictions of a sweeping statewide victory "for the people" Sept. 8.

In a speech over Savannah radio and television stations, Thompson urged all his supporters who will not be at the polls on election day to obtain absentee ballots so they can vote for him.

"Every Democrat in Georgia ought to vote in this primary," he said. "August 28 is the last day for obtaining absentee ballots. Voters should apply in person or through a friend or relative to the registrar for absentee ballots."

GREATEST NUMBER

"With almost a million and a quarter Georgians eligible to vote in this primary, we should have the greatest number of ballots ever cast, and every citizen eligible to vote should share in the election," Thompson declared.

The former acting governor arranged to fly here from Atlanta in a private plane for his radio and television appearances. He is scheduled to fly back to Atlanta Tuesday and then head by automobile for a night rally at Summerville.

Confidently forecasting victory, Thompson in his speech here said:

"This campaign has been a campaign by the people. I have never seen one in which so many volunteers worked so hard in so many counties all over Georgia. The people are going to win a sweeping victory all over the state. They are going to carry Chatham County for me by a record majority. We are going to carry the counties touching Chatham and all of the counties in the Savannah area in this primary."

INDUSTRIAL PROGRAM

"We are going to carry every congressional district in Georgia, both on a popular vote and a county unit basis," Thompson continued. "We are going to win this."

Huiet Predicts Repeat Win in All 159 Counties

Labor Commissioner Ben T. Huiet Monday predicted he will carry every county in the state this year, as he did in his 1950 campaign.

The commissioner said he has completed a visit to all the 159 counties, shaking hands with the people and making talks.

"I am grateful for the widespread expressions of approval I have received concerning my administration," Huiet said. "Only through the support and cooperation of the public can a public servant accomplish worthwhile objectives."

Twenty-five modern paintings from the collection of the University of Nebraska will remain on exhibit at the Atlanta Public Library through Sept. 9.

Represented in the show, which is circulated by the American Federation of Arts, are such well-known painters as Eugene Bernman, Robert Motherwell and Karl Zerbe.

ALBANY 49—The state division of archives and history has announced the publication of the 11th volume of the papers of Sir William Johnson. The volume covers Johnson's work in Indian affairs for the British in 1764-65.

Hard of Hearing?

Would you take a chance on a store clerk fitting your new eyeglasses?

Hearing aids must be fitted, too, though many manufacturers cheapen their instruments by leaving out fitting controls, attempting to justify it with the claim that fittings are unnecessary. Government agencies and medical clinics, however, insist on the practice of fitting hearing aids as a regular part of their service to the hard of hearing.

Sonotone Hearing Aid Consultants are trained in measurement and fitting techniques. As with glasses, your instrument is tailored to your particular needs. This removes guesswork and is your assurance of the best in better hearing—the first time.

Griffin Promises Vets All Benefits Possible

Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin said Monday night that the expression "veterans' preference" will be more than just a slogan when he becomes governor.

"Being a veteran myself, I am interested in the problems of my comrades in arms and veterans of all wars," Griffin said in a speech over Atlanta, Columbus and Rome television stations. "I shall do everything within my power to see that the veterans receive the benefits to which they are entitled from a grateful government."

Griffin hit back at candidate Tom Linder, who has charged that Griffin, M. E. Thompson and Fred Hand are "three liquor men running against Tom Linder." "I note that one of my opponents says I came out of the same foxhole with two other opponents in this race," Griffin stated. "The only foxhole I know anything about was the foxhole I was in with thousands of other Georgia men in the jungles of the Southwest Pacific during World War II. Of course, the candidate who made that statement would not know anything about that kind of foxhole."

Griffin claimed a "sweeping victory" for the Sept. 8 Democratic primary. He said thousands are joining his ranks daily.

"This victory is indicated by the daily vicious, malicious, unwarranted attacks on my honesty and integrity by the foreign-

Thompson, Griffin Would Kill New Industry—Hand

By DERICK DANIELS

Fred Hand, tuning up on television for a campaign week of a dozen speeches, said Monday new industry would boycott Georgia if either M. E. Thompson or Marvin Griffin is elected governor.

Had asked a WSB-TV audience: How much confidence would industry have in a state run by a man who was involved with liquor rackets or a man connected with the pardon racket?

The Pelham businessman had his own answer ready: "They would pick another state."

INVESTOR INSURANCE

He said investors must have insurance they won't be "gouged" and that the governor understands their problems.

Hand wrote off Griffin as a contender in the nine-way race. He said the lieutenant governor killed his chances with a "stupid" school segregation plan and by complicity in the pardon racket. As for Thompson, Hand said, his only claim to fame was that he increased the state's income $45,000,000 without raising taxes.

REASON FOR INCREASE

"I checked," Hand said, "and it did go up because M. Thompson had nothing to do with it." The reason for the increased revenue during Thompson's term, Hand said, was that gasoline rationing was removed and that for the first time since the war merchants could get the goods that were in demand.

"Georgia's increased revenue was due to the natural rise in income, but even then it wasn't up to the national average," Hand said.

Hand promised his audience a system of roads to increase prosperity, continued building of hospitals and larger old-age pensions by matching federal money to the limit. He said he believes "through a businesslike, state government the Adequate Program of Education can be financed."

Cook Offers Homestead Tax Ruling

There is no automatic extension of the homestead tax exemption on personal property, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook said Monday.

He advised J. F. Sellers of Lenox that an owner of personal property must make application before April 1 each year to obtain the $300 exemption.

The Homestead Exemption Law was amended in 1952 to provide that once an owner of real estate has applied for the homestead exemption, it is automatically renewed each year so long as the real estate is occupied by the owner.

But, Cook said, the amendment included no reference to personal property and that to obtain exemption on it it still is necessary to make an annual application.

The attorney general commented to newsmen that he felt it was merely an oversight when per-

Wilkes Jury Members

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 — Hal P. Shank and J. H. Blackmon have been appointed as new members of the Wilkes County Jury Commission.

HAVE YOU HEARD ABOUT OUR OPERATIONS?

OUR FREIGHT TRAIN OPERATIONS, we mean. For we've speeded up most of Southern's scheduled freight service. It's now better than ever, and constantly being improved.

For example, our freight train No. 153 travels the route of our fine passenger train, "The Crescent," from Washington, D. C., to Atlanta, Ga., and its schedule is only 2 hours longer. Shippers save a day!

Many other stepped-up freight schedules now in operation benefit not only Southern Railway shippers but you as an individual, too.

For even though you may never use it directly, the kind of mass transportation that serves your community can affect your home, your family, your job. Inadequate transportation is a drag on economic development. Good, dependable, all-weather service helps a locality prosper and grow. That's why aggressive, on-its-toes railroading like this is so important to the growing Southland. And to you!

Stobbs, Keriazakos Hurl
Washington To Twin Win

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23 (AP)—Eddie Yost and Jim Busby tormented their favorite American League "cousins," the Philadelphia Athletics, today, as the Washington Senators swept a double-header 8-5 and 10-2.

Busby and Yost drove in five runs and scored twice in the opener as Chuck Stobbs outlasted four A's hurlers to pick up his eighth win of the season.

In the nightcap, Yost came up with a couple of hits and he and Busby were right in the thick of a five-run, seventh-inning rally by the Senators which blew open a nip-and-tuck duel where the lead changed hands five times.

In the opener, the Senators decided the game with the three-run rallies in the fifth and sixth. The A's had grabbed a 1-0 lead in the fourth on a walk to Jim Finigan, a force play, Vic Power's single and Joe Demaestri's single.

With two out in the fifth, Stobbs and Eddie Yost drew walks and Pete Runnels singled through the box to produce a run. Mickey Vernon scratched an infield single and Jim Busby drove in two more with a single to center.

The A's picked up one in the fifth on a walk, a forceout and a blop double to right by Finigan.

Jackson Grabs Title On Bradberry's Blow

A two-out single by sub outfielder Howard Bradberry following a smashing triple by Don Muse gave Ben Masengale's Jackson Loan club an 11-9 victory over Shurbutt Service and the 1954 Atlanta Amateur Baseball Federation tournament championship Monday night at South Fulton Park.

Bradberry's pay-off belt climaxed a see-saw battle that ended in a sixth consecutive tournament triumph for Jackson Loan, which plans to represent Georgia in the National tournament at Youngstown, Ohio, Sept. 11-19.

The victory also marked the fourth time that LeRoy Wells, veteran right-hander, was returned victor in the six games.

Bill Walraven, aging outfielder, walloped a triple, double and two singles in five trips for Masengale's maulers, and George Najour soaked a triple, double and single. Austin Eason, ex-Georgia star, chipped in with a double and single in the 15-hit attack.

Girl Golfers' Tournament Begins Today

By BERT PRATHER

The annual City Junior girls golf tournament sponsored by Atlanta Women's Golf Association, opens Tuesday at Druid Hills Golf Club for a three-day run.

Joyce Denson, winner of the East Lake Club title a week ago, is favored to take the championship vacated by Janice Phelps. Miss Phelps, who won the tournament three times, is now over the 17-year age limit.

Other top title contenders are Diane Sargent of East Lake and Coco Otsakis of Ansley Golf Club.

Richard Tatum captured the qualifying medal as play started Monday in the East Lake Junior tournament. Tatum scored an 84 over the par 72 No. 2 course. The tournament is limited to boys under 15.

vanced on an out, and hooped it home on Paul Rambone's double. The victory gave the Crackers a 7-4 edge over the Bears at Hartwell Field and a 12-6 advantage for the season. Three games remain between the clubs at Poncey.

CRACKER DIARY: Vern Petty, struck on the left wrist by Bob Hoffman pitch in the sixth, turned over the third base station to Billy Porter. However, trainer Lew Jarvis said Petty probably would be able to play in Tuesday's opener against New Orleans. Petty is still nursing a bruised leg as a result of a freak injury last week when he was struck by falling brick after lightning hit a chimney atop the Kimball House. . . . Manager Whitlow Wyatt has his starting pitchers lined up for the vital four-game set with the Pels. He'll lead with Dick Donovan and follow up with Dick Kelly, Glenn Thompson and Leo Cristante.

Watson's Homer Nips Sumner, 4-3

Aubrey Watson's third home run of the tourney decided a pitching duel in favor of Equen Smith as Adamsville Midgits trimmed Sumner Park, 4-3, Monday to move the two teams to a final battle Tuesday for two trophies in the Atlanta Boys Club 12-and-under baseball tourney at ABC.

Smith and Roy Gabriels each allowed four hits, Smith running his list of strikeouts to 39 in three tourney games with 14. Joel Edwards tripled for the winners. Gabriels fanned 13.

South Fulton Wins

The Atlanta Boys Club junior (15 and under) baseball tourney got under way Monday with South Fulton walloping ABC, 15-5. Center Hill meets Lakewood in the two-trophy event at 2 p.m. Tuesday, announced ABC's Hank Struble, directing the tourney.

DIED A HERO—PORT ANGELES, Wash., Aug. 23—Dr. Anthony L. Levy, 30, was found dead on Mt. Olympus. Dr. Levy, a University of California biochemist, had rescued another climber, Dick Neal, who slipped into a crevasse and broke his leg. Levy, exhausted by his efforts, could not get out himself.

000 citizens of voting age in Georgia this year. This is a decline of 0.4 per cent since 1950. There were 1,225,000 Georgians registered to vote in 1950. Registration figures for this year haven't been completed. The Rome News-Tribune has endorsed Thompson for governor. The paper said that Griffin, Hand and Linder have "irrevocably wrecked what had been the Tam-madge organization." Although he was lieutenant governor, Griffin failed to have the respect and support of other high officials in the same administration, the News-Tribune said.

Student Shot, Faces Charge As Peeper

A 24-year-old Georgia Tech student was wounded in the hip by pistol fire at a North Highland Avenue, N.E., apartment building Monday night and was placed under guard at Grady Hospital on Peeping Tom charges, police said. Detectives H. E. Burdett and J. W. Ellington said the student, Charles Johnston of Rome, and another Tech student had called the apartment house at 545 North Highland Ave., in an attempt to get dates with two women residing there. The two women refused, detectives said, and a short while later, Lamar Cleveland, manager of the apartment, noticed someone at a window. Cleveland got a pistol and walked around the building. Cleveland saw Johnston at a window and flashed a light on him, detectives said they were told. They added Johnston picked up a rock and hurled it at Cleveland, striking him on the leg. Cleveland opened fire, wounding Johnston in the hip. Detectives said no charge was placed against Cleveland. They added police have been called to the apartment building several times in recent weeks to investigate reports of Peeping Toms.

Man Pays Check For Meal Eaten 8 Years Before

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—A Bronx resident paid a restaurant owner for two meals today, eight years late. Al Newman, a partner in Rosoff's Restaurant, just off Times Square, received a check for $1.70 in the morning mail. With it was a letter from a man who said he and his brother slipped out of the restaurant eight years ago after eating dinner. He said they didn't have any money. "I'd like to pay off now and apologize for trying to beat you out of the check," the man wrote. Newman said the same meal today would cost $2.75.

Congress Gave the Lie To Gloom, Ike Declares

St. Lawrence Seaway law and the revision of the federal tax structure alone would constitute an honorable record for any Congress.

The 83rd Congress, he said, has been a hard-working Congress; it has set an example of effort for all succeeding Congresses. In reciting its accomplishments he referred to the effective weapons it equipped the government with to search out and defeat internal communism and subversion. This legislation, he said, was a product of study by the Department of Justice and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

This seemed to be a strong hint that he would sign every one of the Communist control bills, including the one that outlaws the party in the United States, but his press secretary would not confirm that.

STRESSES TAX CUTS

More than anything else among the accomplishments, perhaps, the President stressed tax reduction and revision, declaring that total abatements exceeded $7 billion a year, more than any other Congress had put into effect.

He described the country as he found it when he came to office—engaged in war in one way or another in Korea and Indochina, troubled by a fanatic in Iran, meaning Premier Mossadegh; a deadlock in Suez between two allies, England and Egypt.

Also international communism's first bridgehead in this hemisphere, Guatemala; inflation, a price-controlled economy, mounting federal deficits, falling farm prices, and increasing farm surpluses.

In the 19-month interval, he said, there have been vast changes for good because of administration policy. The policy has been the building of a stronger and better America.

CHANGES IN POLICY

That policy has been advanced in the following way, he declared: Strict security standards, honest economy measures, and fair play for all; stronger defense forces, increased striking power of the Air Force, better strategic deployment of troops.

Also, frank and frequent talks with our Allies; a meeting with our neighbors to the south of Caracas where a new policy against Communist infiltration of this hemisphere was adopted.

He cited the preparations for a Southeast Asia treaty organization, too.

In the legislative field, he said the concept of a stronger America was that of being liberal in dealing with human concerns and that two basic policy agreements had been reached:

1. The West must maintain unity.

2. To do so, it must quickly take steps to fill the breach in Western unity caused by the failure of the conference at Brussels. There French efforts to water down the EDC plan were rejected by the other five proposed members.

Standing in a drizzle at the nearby airport before leaving for home, Mendes-France clasped his hands and said to the Britons:

"main en main" (hand in hand). "I was very touched by the reception I had from the Prime Minister," he said, "and I am very grateful to him and Mr. Eden for our talks."

"WE ARE AGREED"

He started in English, faltered and switched to French, with an interpreter picking him up.

"I was pleased to note that once again we are agreed that the Western nations should work together, and especially our two countries."

Then he climbed into his DC3 and flew into Normandy. He moved tonight to Bagnole de l'Orne to report to President Rene Coty before returning to Paris.

British officials said Churchill urged Mendes-France to do everything he could to get parliamentary approval for EDC but they admitted it looked hopeless.

They said Britain was not prepared to offer the degree of encouragement France wanted—acceptance of full-fledged membership as a seventh member.

WRITING OFF ARMY

British and French sources in London already were writing off house ready for the America of tomorrow.

The next session of Congress, he added, must get to work on measures such as the national highway program and our relations with other nations. There must be mutual pacts, he said, so that we need not worry about what the Communists are up to.

Then, concluding, he said the character of the 84th Congress will be the key to this program for the next two years. He is confident, he said, that the people, by their votes on election day, will decide the character of that Congress; confident that the yardstick they will use in judging candidates will be the legislative program, since the program will be for the good of America.

THESE MEN ARE PROUD OF ATLANTA CITY HALL LAWN
Superintendent Howard Monroe, Gardener Robinson Admire "Rain Tree"

GARDENER WITH A GREEN THUMB

City Hall Lawn Offers Much for Little

By MARJORY SMITH

A rolling stretch of emerald-green lawn at 68 Mitchell St., SW, is the envy of a lot of Atlanta householders.

"People call me up almost every day to ask how we keep the City Hall lawn so green these hot summer days," J. Howard Monroe, City Hall superintendent, reported. "We get telephone calls—out-of-town calls in many cases—from tourists who admire the City Hall and its setting. Some business firms ask for our horticultural secrets!"

That much-admired lawn, the joy of Mayor Hartsfield's life, has been termed "one of the best advertisements the city has" because visitors from all over the world see and comment on it.

NO PARKING

Its 40,000 square feet of grass, flowers and shrubbery has been jealously guarded by Monroe and the mayor against suggestions that it be broken up to make way for parking areas.

"We know parking space is at a premium in the City Hall area," Monroe declared. "But we believe that people are entitled to a certain amount of beauty as well as convenience!"

Visitors and Atlantans who feast their eyes on waving plumes of snowy-white hydrangeas, flowering quince and azaleas, shiny-green ligustrum, and thick, springy grass are inclined to agree.

Any Atlanta homeowner would like to have a year-round green lawn like the one Monroe and City Hall gardener Howard Robinson maintain at a surprisingly small cost to taxpayers.

PRISONER MAINTENANCE

Prison labor "keeps" the lawn. Fertilizers come from the city disposal plant. Water and soil tests are free. Many of the bulbs and shrubs which dot the lawn were donated by Atlantans and by other cities. (A good example is an exotic "rain tree" given by the parks department of New Orleans.)

Robinson's salary and relatively small occasional expenditures of grass seeds and new pieces of shrubbery are the only costs to the city.

"If we had to pay a water bill, however, it would amount to around $25 per month during Atlanta's extremely hot summer months," Monroe reported. Giant sprinklers play on that sparkling green lawn for a good part of each day.

2 GRASSES

To the many firms and individuals seeking Atlanta's "horticultural secrets," Monroe advises use of only two grasses—Bermuda in the summer and Italian rye grass in the winter.

Sludge from the city disposal plant is the main fertilizer used on the City Hall lawn. When free state soil tests show they are needed, aluminum sulphate or lime is added.

As for the lawn's brilliant flowers and shrubs—"bird of paradise," buddleia, iris, dwarf canna, abelia, sweet alyssum and the rest—Monroe smiles:

"Our gardener has a green thumb. Howard Robinson has spent most of his life in gardens and greenhouses. He's been tending the City Hall lawn since 1942, and he just naturally pets and loves those flowers into bloom!"

Are You a Slave to Eyeglasses? Free booklet explains how you can see without glasses!

Atlanta (Special) — A European scientist has invented a new type of corneal contact lens, which revolutionizes visual aids and may enable millions of Americans who are now slaves to glasses to actually throw them away. The secret of the radical difference and superiority of the lens lies in a specially ground and polished recessed and domed central portion, which prevents the lens from touching the most sensitive part of the eye—its center. Visual discomfort and poor sight can now be improved far better than with glasses. The lens is absolutely invisible. No fluids or impressions are required. Persons who wear thick glasses with strong corrections; post-cataract cases and cases of Keratoconus, mixed astigmatism, strong farsightedness and nearsightedness can now be corrected far better than with glasses. Masked Teen-Agers Prowl Grady Wards

By JEAN THRASHER

Only their eyes and hands show when a group of North Fulton High School students go visiting.

The students, members of the North Fulton Christian Fellowship group, don masks and robes just like the doctors and nurses for their twice-a-week visits to Grady Hospital's contagious ward.

Distributing new magazines, reading from the Bible, playing records and just talking—they try to cheer the patients.

Working in both white and Negro wards the visitors encounter patients with everything from childhood diseases to polio and tuberculosis. But so far, there have been only two casualties since the visits began last March — both caused by the antiseptic masks.

Beverly Butler, chairman of the group, fainted on her first visit to the ward. Her hot mask, rather than any germ, was the cause. "I was mortified," she recalls. Another student was also a hot mask casualty. Patients, ranging from young children to old people aren't in the least frightened by their masked visitors. "They're used to nurses and doctors in masks," Beverly says.

"The patients can't wait for their next visit," says Nurse Florie Trice. Young patients enjoy Bible stories and comic books.

Mrs. Ott Alston, Gray Lady and director of occupational therapy at the hospital, interested the teen-agers in the project.

Now two years old, the Christian fellowship group has spread to other high schools since it was organized at North Fulton.

Visiting at Grady is not the only project of the enterprising teen-agers. They also give programs at a playground for underprivileged children and Union Mission.

The interdenominational group has also organized a Sunday school at Chattahoochee.

Al Nichols is chairman of the North Fulton group.

Bergamot, Bewildering

You've heard of bird watchers? Well, I'm a bergamot watcher. A neophyte, it's true, but lately come to the field of bergamot watching, I have all the neophyte's enthusiasm for my calling—and, I might as well add, all the confusion, too. It's this way: Some weeks ago, annoyed at being unable to identify any of the flowers I saw growing along the roadside on mountain walks, I invested a dollar in a little book called "Flowers: A Guide to Familiar American Wildflowers."

It was, I thought, going to make me very knowing about blooms and bushes, at one with Nature and an easy and graceful conversationalist in the company of such people as Mr. E. N. Nicholson, of Hiwassee, who set out to be a botanist and switched to county farm agenting somewhere along the line without losing his knowledge of and pleasure in mountain flowers. I could see myself, throwing out casual references to mallows and filarees and talking to Mr. Nicholson winningly of dicot plants and monocot plants. Hah! I can barely tell a yarrow from a pipsissewa—and that only because yarrow has been blooming like crazy along the roadsides all over Georgia and, according to my book, pipsissewa only bloom in the Northern states. (Watch Mr. Nick come up tomorrow with a Georgia-born, Georgia-bred pipsissewa!)

Anyhow, this flower-watching book has been a sight of pleasure to me. Early in the morning before the children are awake I take a cup of coffee in one hand and the book in the other and wander out along the old CCC road to meet my neighbors, the flowering shrubs and herbs. For a long time I'd been seeing this tall shrub with coarse leaves and heavy bunches of tiny flowers and it didn't mean a thing to me until I finally found it in the book and was able to give it a name—Joeyweed! As if that weren't fascinating enough a name for any shrub I read further and found that it's kin to Boneset, reliable standby of herb doctors of other days. (They may still, for all I know, serve Boneset tea to ailing humanity somewhere.)

Ironweeds and asters are coming along now and the most common, unpretentious little plant is one with small spikes of blue and purple flowers, identified by the book as "Selfheal" or "Healall" (summer blooming mint family.) ("This plant was once used medicinally for sore throats and other minor ailments," says the book.)

As I said, there's a certain satisfaction in being able to identify a flower, to know its name and its family background and something of its usefulness. (Most fall flowers, it seems, offer wonderful food for game birds.) But most of the time I run around because the flowers I find either aren't in the book or don't match the ones in the book in some important particular.

Take bergamot. I was delighted when I found in a damp place down by the creek three beautiful bright red blooms atop some tall fragrant, mint-like plants. According to the book it was bergamot, also called oswego tea, beebalm and horsemint, valued by Indians and early settlers in brewing medicinal tea. Its color could range from scarlet to pale lavender but its blossoms ought to be hunchy looking and here mine are spike-like with seed pods on top! I keep going back looking, hoping they'll eventually do right and come out looking like the flowers in the book. It may be they'll straighten up before first frost and if they don't I'll get me another book.

Face-Lifting In Progress At Museum

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—If they could, the plaster of Paris ladies who've been occupying a musty corridor at the Smithsonian Institution for years would be breathing a sign of relief.

The figures, wearing authentic costumes of White House hostesses from Martha Washington's day, all with identical faces but with individual measurements and hair-dos, are being transferred to period rooms decorated in the styles used in the White House during their reigns and separately illuminated.

What's more the ladies are getting a new coat of paint, and their costumes are being cleaned and renovated.

Most important, the extra swatching, fishus, gilets, gumpes, veils and scarves used to cover up what some wary turn-of-the-century arrangers might have considered indiscreet bareness, are being removed.

DONE AWAY

"For instance, the bit of tulle, which covered the square-cut neckline of Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes' gown is being done away with," Miss Margaret Brown, associate curator of the Division of Civil History, told me.

In other instances, lace shawls and other pieces of fabric which have covered details marking particular styles are being taken off.

In some cases, period jewelry and other accessories of the era are added for interest. To date the White House ladies' collection boasts some 36 models, including a colonial gown of salmon pink taffeta, painted with American flowers and insects, worn by Martha Washington. A plaster of Paris model with bangs is currently being made to fit the beautiful jewel-embroidered pink inaugural gown which Mrs. Eisenhower gave to the collection last year.

Eight period rooms are being constructed to house the collection which was started in 1909 and the public will be able to get a view sometime after the first of the year.

ORIGINAL FURNITURE

Background for four of the rooms will be original gold furniture used in the White House from the Buchanan to the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration. Mantels and paneling, discarded in the recent renovation of the executive mansion, will also be used in some of the rooms.

In the room where Martha Washington's gown is displayed, tables, chairs and mirrors used in the first executive mansion at Philadelphia will be used.

WOMPI Plan Dinner Aug. 26

Weight Mystery Is Solved

By IDA JEAN KAIN

As you drift through the late summer days, eating whatever your appetite tempts and sipping cooling beverages, you probably give little thought to the fit of your skirt in a fall outfit.

To prevent a rude awakening a few weeks hence, do some sleuthing and track down the calorie culprits. Be your own detective and ferret out some important clues. In a whodunit, all suspicion is pointed away from the guilty party. On the calorie score—likewise.

Summer meals that consist of all cold foods appear to be light eating. Salads are never suspect. But hold on—calories lurk in the dressing. At 100 calories per tablespoon, dressings can turn salads into fattening fare. Potato chips, a popular accompaniment to a summer meal, are considered a mere snack. But ten potato chips contain as much fuel as a medium size baked potato.

WATCH OUT

Watch out for those cold food meals. They are not nearly so satisfying as hot meals, and because they leave you feeling vaguely dissatisfied, you continue eating. The grand total of calories would probably shock you.

But how do you tell a fattening food when you meet one? How, that is, before it has piled a billow of fat on the midriff? Some more important clues:

If the food feels oily to the taste, it's sure to be calorie packed. Avocado, olives, salad dressings and nuts are all high in fat. Butter, margarine and cream furnish fats, too, but you can detect them more easily. Does it taste starchy? Big meaty lima beans, mature peas, baked beans and the macaroni family "starch" start the calories rolling up.

Hidden calories galore come in casseroles and creamed dishes. Lobster is low in calories—but not when served in a lobster thermidor. If food is very sweet, whether in liquid form or a fluffy dessert, suspect it of having too many calories for slimming purposes.

BE CAREFUL. If you are not feeling very hungry, you may order just a sandwich and a milk shake. But don't be deceived—that lunch can be more fattening than a four course meal planned with an eye to deleting high calories. When you keep the calorie score, you solve the mystery as to where the pounds come from. Be ever alert for those calorie packed "extras." Have fresh fruit for dessert routinely. Cool off with non-nutritive soft drinks or fruit drinks sweetened with sucaryl. Summer isn't officially over for another 30 days. If you'll watch the calorie culprits, you can trim off a couple of pounds a week while not actually dieting.

Pick Up Your Crying Baby
When Weather Is Sultry

There have been some very hot nights lately, and in our neighborhood any one with ears can calculate the heat or humidity by whether that baby cries or not.

The baby, judging by its cries, is somewhere between six months and a year old, and it is permitted to cry for periods of at least an hour at a time.

The first crying jag comes around 8 p.m. Another comes around midnight. Somewhere during the early hours of the morning there is certain to be another. No one likes to hear a baby cry. No one except the parents can do anything about it, and they don't. Why don't they?

WHY HE'S UPSET

No one in his right mind in this so-called enlightened age can possibly believe that crying is good for babies. Babies don't like to cry.

What upsets a baby in hot weather? More or less the same things that upset you. Thirst, hunger, the heat and its attendant discomfort, too many clothes, mosquitoes, flies, heat rash, and being so worn out from being hot that sleep is impossible. To have to cry one's self to sleep seems a horrible punishment for being a baby.

Nautical Look

The nautical theme, the midly look, is a strong influence this fall, especially in dresses. This is expressed through sailor knots, ascots, collars, sleeve, shoulder emblems, and unpressed pleats. This midly styling is international, varied by the Italian sailor and the French sailor collar and trimmings.

GETS FELLOWSHIP
Andrew S. Rogowski

Expatriate 14 Years, To U-Ga.

A tall, handsome Pole who has spent 14 of his 23 years as a "man without a country" will enter the University of Georgia this fall to study agriculture.

He is Andrew Stanislaw Rogowski, who was deported from his native country to Siberia in 1940, freed and sent to Persia in 1942, then moved to East Africa two years later.

There, at Nairobi, Kenya, in sight of Mt. Kilimanjaro, he has worked in an agricultural laboratory since 1949.

At the lab he met Georgia professor Mathias Stelly, who was sent to Kenya by the Mutual Security Agency to study soil fertility. When Stelly suggested that Andrew come to Georgia to study under him, he applied for a Rotary Fellowship. He sailed for the United States in July.

Sightseeing in Atlanta this week, the young Pole marveled at how total strangers were "as nice to me as my own family."

Andrew's vagabond years began when Poland was partitioned by Germany and Russia shortly after World War II began. His father, who was serving in the Polish Army, was taken prisoner and sent to Siberia.

Two weeks later soldiers came to the Rogowski home in the night and herded Andrew and his mother onto a cattle car. They were transported 3,000 miles to Siberia.

But in 1942, after Russia and the Allies became cobelligerents, they were sent with other Poles for rehabilitation in Persia. Andrew heard that his father had been reactivated into a Polish regiment. In 1944 the three emigrated to Kenya, but Mr. Rogowski died shortly afterwards.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the chapel of J. Austin Dillon Co. Burial will be in Westview Cemetery. Further arrangements will be announced.

Dixie Retail Trade Totals $17 Billion

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Southern retail merchants did a whopping $17 billion business in the first half of 1954, with just about every month showing a gain over the preceding month.

A Bureau of the Census report issued in Atlanta Monday by the Commerce Department also revealed that an estimated $3,034,000,000 in Dixie's retail sales during June:

1. Broke all records for the year, and,
2. Almost equaled the heavy buying done last December when Christmas shopping was at its peak.

The first six months of this year showed a gradual rise in month-to-month retail sales, the report noted, with the exception of a slight seasonal decline in May.

June sales, for example, were nearly half a billion dollars ahead of January's business. They also almost equaled the dollar volume of sales in the heavily-populated Northeast.

Merchants in most areas of the Southeast reported a sharp upturn in June over May of this year, and in the Atlanta and Birmingham metropolitan areas several important divisions of retail trade were doing substantially better this year than last.

Retail sales in Atlanta during June, compared with the same month last year, were up 5 per cent in food stores, 10 per cent in apparel stores and 4 per cent in department stores.

There were also gains here of 6 per cent in furniture and appliance establishments, 2 per cent in lumber, building materials and hardware, 6 per cent in automotive accessories and 3 per cent in gasoline service stations.

With but a few exceptions, most other Southeastern cities listed in the report had significantly improved sales.

The month-to-month increases in the first half of 1954 bring at least one fact clearly to light:

The consumer, more than anyone else, kept the "inventory recession" from becoming too serious. By continuing to use his purchasing power, the consumer has brought this nation back to a point of increasing economic activity.

Used Cars Steadier

After a hectic 1953, used car prices show strong signs of stabilizing. Automotive Market Report said Monday that wholesale used car prices, which usually decline in mid-summer, made an amazing about-face in the two-week period ended Aug. 18. The trade price journal said its index advanced then for what was only the second week-to-week gain so far this year. Dealer buying activity was above the week-ago and year-ago levels, thanks to an 18-month low in inventories plus rising retail activity across the country.

July Business Failures

July business failures decreased 11 per cent from those of June to the lowest level—856—this year, according to Dun & Bradstreet. However, casualties continued 13 per cent above a year ago and exceeded the toll of any July since pre-war 1941. In Georgia and other South Atlantic states, July failures numbered 53, compared with 82 in June and 65 in July, 1953.

Beans Skid; Lard Higher CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—Soybean beans, which advanced more than 9 cents in active trading last week, dipped the 10-cent-a-bushel daily limit today on the Board of Trade.

That was part of the 5,000 pages of psychiatric evidence introduced back in 1924 in the Leopold and Loeb case, when 18-year-old Loeb and 19-year-old Loeb were defended by Clarence Darrow for their sadistic murder of 14-year-old Bobby Frank.

"Dr. Alvarez has stated that most frustrated men who have come under his observation suffer from a 'failure-guilt-complex' and that in most cases this is entirely unwarranted."—Psychology article quite.

"Breathes there a man" who never said . . . "I guess I might as well be dead . . . for all the good that I have done . . . for living isn't any fun . . . when I look back and realize . . . how dumb, how utterly unwise . . . I've acted through my span of years . . . a vision from the past appears . . . to haunt me every way I turn . . . In school I was so slow to learn . . . the teacher said I 'had it made' . . . when I wound up the second grade.

"I failed at everything I tried . . . until, at last, ambition died . . . It's not so bad that I have failed . . . except, I have become entangled . . . with several children and a wife . . . who suffer from my wasted life."

It seems that when a man begins . . . to tabulate his faults and sins . . . which, he, himself, cannot condone . . . he should be glad he's not alone . . . for more of us have made a mess . . . of life than those who won success.

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1 club Pass 3 no trump Pass
 1 no trump Pass 3 no trump Pass

Opening lead: King of clubs. Today's offering is by no means a scoop, although it might have been at one time but for my flagrant shortcomings as a housekeeper. The deal was submitted to me at the National championships of a year I prefer not to mention, by Art Grau of Racine, Wis. A recent excavation of my desk has brought it to light.

Grau, a former national champion, enjoys a flare for the dramatic and in conducting the defense of today's hand from the West seat, he deliberately sacrificed a trick worth 100 points to insure defeat of the contract, and I have not yet decided whether he did so in the interest of complete safety or to indulge his dramatic sense.

West, holding South under slight suspicion, decided to open the king of clubs. When East played the deuce Grau realized that declarer's opening bid had been on the level, so he shifted to the three of diamonds. Declarer won with the king in dummy and East made the enlightening discard of the eight of diamonds, saying in effect: "I have something good in the suit." Declarer played a low spade from dummy in the hope of passing the trick into West's hand but East put in the jack and declarer played three rounds of the suit. This placed the lead with East and West had a discard to make. His one consideration must be to ward off the club return which partner almost surely would make if left to his own devices. With a sensitive partner it seems to this department the discard of a club should suggest to partner a loss of interest in that suit and a desire for a diamond lead. Grau realized from partner's play of the eight of diamonds that he had either the jack or the queen and a diamond return would settle the issue.

However, he was unwilling to rely on subtleties, so to impress upon partner the futility of a club return he discarded the ace. East's play of the jack of diamonds then sent the declarer down to a one trick set.

We have since mused over what might have happened had West not made this spectacular discard. No one will ever know. It is significant, however, that East did not act offensively at his partner's deliberate squandering of 100 points.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE B. VANDELLEN

Exercises Suggested For 2 Leg Defects

Knock knees in children under three are not unusual. These youngsters are clumsy on their feet and stumble easily but after they learn to stand and walk properly, the condition generally corrects itself.

The abnormality begins with weakness of the muscles and ligaments that support the inner aspect of the knee. The ensuing relaxation leads to poor alignment of the legs. The knees touch but the ankles are separated by an inch or so and in some, by three to five inches, which produces the typical "X" type of deformity.

Teaching the child to walk properly and to bear the weight of the body on the heels when standing usually leads to cure within a year or two. Many physicians also instruct the shoemaker to build up the inside heel to shift the body-weight to the outside rim of the foot.

Bowleg is another common defect of the early years of life. Nowadays, it is noted shortly after the child begins to walk and may result from the wear of bulky diapers or from the childhood habit of sitting tailor-fashion. The tendency is greater among early walkers, more so if the youngster is overweight.

Postal Supervisors Start 4-Day Meeting

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 23 (AP)—The National Assn. of Postal Supervisors began a four-day convention today with withdrawal from the American Federation of Labor one of the prime questions before it.

The group is questioning its AFL affiliation because it believes its members are a part of management.

Better pay, changes in postal rates and amendments to the retirement plan also are among matters under consideration.

Mercy Lift Veteran Under Observation

Prayer Called Best Aid Doctor Can Prescribe

Daisy McBroom, 80, has been the mainstay of the village church in Indiana, near which we have our summer home.

She has been a valiant "spark-plug" for morality in the entire community.

But then she began to suffer severe pain over her heart and could scarcely catch her breath. She found it impossible to walk out of the house.

She had a heart attack that became knife-like in its pain. She couldn't move around.

GOD'S MIRACLES

In desperation one night she knelt down beside her bed and prayed:

"Lord, if you want me in heaven, that's all right with me. I've lived a long life and have always tried to do Thy will."

"But I can't stand this pain much longer, so I am perfectly willing to die. But if you want me to live and carry on my work in the church and to teach my Sunday school class, then I need help."

"So I'll leave it all up to you, Lord."

Then she stood up, and the pain began to vanish. It just disappeared like fog before the summer sun. In a few minutes, she felt entirely free from suffering.

And the next Sunday she walked to church and led the singing and has continued doing so for the intervening six years.

PRAYER MIRACLES

Now here is how was probably effected this miraculous cure of Daisy McBroom.

We have two nervous systems. The "central" includes brain and spinal cord and permits our thinking or conscious actions.

But there is also a "autonomic" which regulates heart beat, breathing rate, sweating, blood pressure, digestion and those other automatic functions of the body.

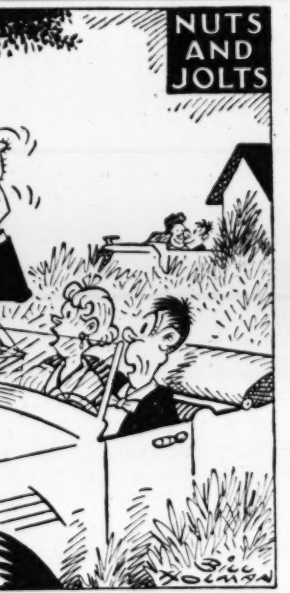

However, there is a connecting nerve fiber between the two at each vertebra, so our conscious attitudes can percolate through and upset the autonomic, as in blushing or blanching of the skin in fear, etc.

Daisy had been afraid that her heart attack would be fatal. She had worried about it and had tried to carry the load all by herself.

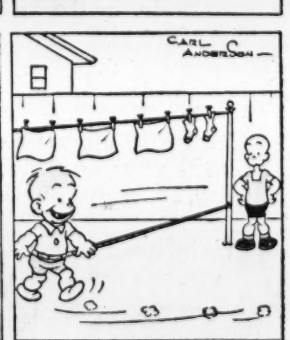

Finally, she faced the issue and shifted the responsibility to God. Immediately, her coronary arteries relaxed and thus carried more blood to the heart muscle, relieving the oxygen hunger (pain) of the heart.

For the arteries are surrounded by little circular muscle fibers that go into spasm under such subconscious worry and anxiety.

So team up with God. That's the best medicine doctors can prescribe.

"Geraldine! The man says he's all out of vanilla!"

Husbands say the nicest things when you wash their shirts in all!

The folks you love to please can't help loving you for the extra-beautiful wash all's "controlled suds" do!

This new detergent is actually prescribed by automatic washer makers (and patented in Washington)!

SEVERAL MILLION WOMEN can happily testify that all is a wonderful step forward in the art of home laundering.

With almost no suds, all is obviously different from old-fashioned thick-suds detergents. It's also obvious that all's "controlled suds" can do a far better job for you in your automatic washer.

That's why all is so urgently and universally prescribed by automatic washer makers themselves.

Sad facts about thick suds

The men who repair and service automatic washers blame "too much suds" for 4 out of 5 of their trouble-shooting calls.

They know, from sad experience, that no washer can do a thorough washing job if it's all choked up and smothered in billows of thick suds!

That's why most of these washer experts always leave a sample box of all with the owner after nursing a washer back to health.

For all's "controlled suds" actually help the washer swish and slosh the dirt out of the clothes, instead of putting on the brakes like heavy suds.

Why all-clean clothes stay cleaner

Instead of foaming away its washing power on top of the wash water, every particle of all dives under for the dirt in the clothes.

It doesn't just loosen the dirt but also actually hurls onto it and drags it all out with the rinse water.

So here's where all beats thick suds again. For you know how stubborn suds can be, and you certainly don't want a fresh load of wash dulled and discolored by the suds your washer can't rinse away. all leaves absolutely no sticky suds film to pick up dirt, so an all-clean wash actually stays clean longer!

Patented for your protection

all was created at the request of automatic washer makers. Its miraculous "controlled suds" have proved a welcome blessing to countless women. Now others are trying to imitate all. If you want the same wonderful washing results now enjoyed by millions of users, remember this: all's exclusive "controlled suds" formula is protected by U. S. Patent Nos. 2550691 and 2594453.

Compare... at our risk

all is positively guaranteed to outwash anything you've ever used in your automatic washer, or you can get your money back.

So buy a box of all right away... and try it on all your wash... everything from the grimest work and play clothes to your daintiest lingerie. (all is unconditionally recommended for the new miracle fabrics like Acrilan, Orlon, Dynel and nylon.)

If you don't see a wonderful difference... immediately... just return the rest of the all to your dealer. He has been instructed to refund your money in full.

Now two types of all... both prescribed for automatic washers

Here's why there's now a new kind of all at your grocer's. CONDENSED all in the blue box has become the washing favorite of millions. But thousands have asked for a less condensed all that could be used not only in washing machines but also in the kitchen and for basin washing of stockings and lingerie.

This new type—EXTRA FLUFFY all—is the same patented formula as CONDENSED all. It comes in a bright red box, only one-third the weight of the CONDENSED all box—and costs only one-third as much. Monsanto Chemical Company, St. Louis, Missouri.
